

HISTORICAL THINKING SUMMER INSTITUTE

Monday, July 11 - Saturday, July 16, 2016, Museum of Vancouver

Registration Deadline May 30, 2016

Learn more and register at CanadasHistory.ca/HTSI

Historical Thinking is now a foundation for history and social studies curricula across the country and internationally, and museum and heritage educators are similarly embracing it. This Historical Thinking Summer Institute is designed for teachers, curriculum developers, professional development leaders, historians and museum educators who want to enhance their expertise at designing history courses, programs, and educational resources with explicit attention to historical thinking.

Attendees of the 2016 Historical Thinking Summer Institute will participate in a variety of activities including presentations, workshops, field trips, discussions of readings, guest lectures, and group work to explore six historical thinking concepts.

These concepts will shape our exploration of the substantive theme of migrations, Aboriginal/settler relations, resource extraction, and labour history. Visits to museum exhibitions and collections storage will provide the opportunity to discuss the role of material culture in history education and historical interpretation.

YOUR INSTRUCTORS:

DR. LINDSAY GIBSON is an assistant professor at the University of Alberta and has worked with the Historical Thinking Project since 2008.

DR. VIVIANE GOSSELIN is Curator of Contemporary Culture at the Museum of Vancouver and Associate Researcher with the UBC Centre for the Study of Historical Consciousness.

DR. PETER SEIXAS is the founder of the Historical Thinking Project at the University of British Columbia. Dr. Seixas will present the Introduction to the Historical Thinking Concepts and will attend the presentation of group projects as part of the summer institute.

The Historical Thinking Summer Institute is presented in partnership with:

